

COREPSYCH RADIO # 14 JUNE 4, '09
THURSDAYS 4 EST, 3 CST, 2MST, 1PST

DR CHARLES PARKER

757.473.3770 EXT 203

www.corepsychblog.com/cpradio

Follow and Chat on Twitter @ www.twitterchat.com; #cpradio

Review Last week: Neurotransmitter Precursors: Measurement Considerations.

Program 13: Neurotransmitters and Their Role in Brain Health

I predict that the next several years will find us using increasingly advanced technology and further research to better understand what happens with the specifics of brain neurotransmitters in respect to different clinical office findings. SPECT imaging shows us the macro-physiology of the brain.

These interventions do not suggest that we throw away all we know about psychopharmacology, but offer additional insights for further augmentation and treatment strategies.

These tests are less expensive, often paid for by insurance and take evidence closer to the clinical conditions.

For this program one download for reference: A PDF of the entire slide show by NeuroScience used as the basis for the program.

1. Neurotransmitters and Their Role in Brain Health:
<http://www.corepsychblog.com/wp-content/uploads/cpradio/neurotransmitters-role-in-health-2008-pdf.pdf>